Six to Fight for Seats on Board

Blume - Maddox - Meisner
Opposite Trio of Other Candidates

A fight for the three seats on the board of education which may relegate the mayor to a non-policy position, was begun this week when he refused to sign an independent slate for the November election.

The independents will be Louis A. Blume, Robert H. Maddox, and Alfred Meisner. They will be opposed by the regular school board members and the citizen group which are trying to retain the mayor as the head of the public system.

Their success on the polls will determine how many people the mayor will retain in the party.

To some extent, that has been the case with many candidates who run against the mayor.

In the past, there has not been a contest in the school board, but in the past few years, it has been common for the mayor to be defeated by a slate of independent candidates.

Furness is the only candidate with the advantage of an independent slate as he is running against the mayor.

Blume is not to be confused with the mayor and his party in their campaign, as he is running against Furness.

Furness is expected to campaign vigorously against Blume and Maddox, while Blume and Maddox are expected to campaign for independent candidates.

The mayor has not been successful in the past few years, as independent candidates have been elected to the school board.

Dark Horse Looms in 32nd's Council Battle

A dark horse who may completely dismantle the plans of the conservative candidates in the 32nd ward is Randall Blume, Blume's opponent.

Blume is running on a platform of opposition to the mayor's policies, while the regular candidates are running on a platform of support for the mayor's policies.

The mayor's policies have been controversial in the 32nd ward, and many residents are dissatisfied with his leadership.

Blume is expected to campaign vigorously against the regular candidates, while the regular candidates are expected to campaign for the mayor.

Extra! Extra! Lions Finally Win Ball Game

Just when everybody thought it couldn't possibly happen, the Lion Lions was a ball game last Monday. It was the first time in many years that the Lions had beaten the Eagles when the Lions were leading 14-13 in the seventh inning.

Mr. Gifford, on the mound, was helped by the Lions' defense. The Lions scored four runs in the ninth inning to capture the game.

The Lions will now face the Eagles in a crucial game at Central Field on Saturday. As of now, the Eagles lead the series 2-1.

Coalsavored To Cop Title

The Blak Coals and Colliedwards have announced their intention to run for the title of cop title. The Blak Coals have been working hard to improve their team, while the Colliedwards have been focusing on improving their defense.

The Cop Title will be contested in a series of games, with the winner being determined by the team with the most points at the end of the season.

The Cop Title is a prestigious award, and the Blak Coals and Colliedwards are both determined to win.

Calls for Change; Coalition Ticket To Be Filed Today

Crowd of 1,200 Thunders Applauds as Candidate of Majority Coalition Its Demand to Debate On Any Issue

Mayor Charles R. Ely spends too much of his time in Florida, Texas and California instead of attending to his duties as head of the city government.

The crowd of 1,200, composed of members of the majority coalition, agreed to support the coalition ticket for mayor, before 100 supporters of the mayor's ticket for state representative.

For the last year or so, he has been attending to his duties at the police station in the center of Topton, N.Y., Ely, 52, said in one of the presentations in the coalition's convention, about which more than 500 were wounded and killed.

Labor Day Means Shifts

The implementation of the annual celebration of Labor Day has without doubt made a difference in the way we approach work. It is no longer a time for a long holiday, but rather a time for recognizing the contributions of workers. With Labor Day marking the end of summer and the start of the fall season, it is the last milestone of the summer and the reengagement period to start the fall of the year activity. Labor day is often considered a start of the school year, as it falls on the first Monday of September, coinciding with the beginning of the academic year. It is a day of reflection on the contributions of workers and a reminder of the importance of labor in building societies and economies.

School Days Nearing

School days, school days, sudden and gladness of the year for children, with the first day of school, must boil down to me that办学 of freedom of vacation days and gladness that summer's days have begun and their basic routines will be in order.

School has ended, as far as I can see, for the children. It is hard for outdoor and playing-boys to return to school, but it is good to think that the next generation is being taught and will be able to have the same opportunities for learning.

The school year is not yet over, but it is time to think about the new school year and the plans for the future.

The Saturday Letter

Dear Friends,

I am writing to share with you some of the developments that are taking place in Cleveland. The city has been experiencing a lot of changes, with new developments and investments in various sectors. Some of these changes include new buildings being constructed, new businesses opening, and improvements being made to existing infrastructure.

The Downtown area has been seeing a lot of activity, with the construction of new office buildings and the renovation of existing ones. The city has also been working on improving the transportation network, with new bus routes and more efficient schedules.

In addition to the physical changes, there are also developments in terms of economic growth. Cleveland has been experiencing a steady increase in employment, with more people finding work in various sectors. This is a positive sign for the future of the city.

I hope that you are enjoying your summer and that you are looking forward to the new school year. The start of the school year is always an exciting time, with new opportunities for learning and growth.

Yours truly,

Cleveland,

Labor Day Marks Opening of Cleveland School Terms

Urges Students to Use Care
In Selecting Trade School

Speaking at a holiday meeting of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, H. H. Jervis, state supervisor of vocational education, said that part of our labor troubles in mechanical fields can be directly attributed to "the bad trade schools," and called for better advice for the education of young men.

"The so-called mechanical trade today performs a task over and over again, so the same thing is repeated over and over again. For the future is limited to experience already gained," Dr. Jervis said, "the whole book is his history and to copy for each right to the book's labor to be justified to the right to the book's labor to be justified to the right to the book's labor.

"There is very little opportunity for the person to do his work other than to work for the person who teaches him," Dr. Jervis continued. "The young man should be taught by the master in his field and not by those who are his pupils." He added that the little technical reading for new students does not adequately prepare them for their work.

Important Decision for Youth

The selection of a school is one of the most important decisions any young man has to make, Dr. Jervis said in his cover story.

"Any school where the qualifications for entrance are high, the institution is known by its teaching, and the teaching is conducted with some degree of scientific ability and ingenuity," Dr. Jervis added, "is the institution that should be recommended to young men as the one most likely to give them a start in life.

Student Should Investigate

Dr. Jervis urged students to exercise the greatest care in selecting a trade school.

"What is the evidence of responsible education in the trade school you have selected for your training? What are the vocational interests of your trade? Is it a recognized institution? What are the prospects for securing an employment of a suitable and promising character?" he asked.

The author also mentioned the importance of selecting a school that will provide a well-rounded education, including business courses, art, and science.

Spencerian, in 90th Year, Has New Courses

Spencerian college this week is celebrating its 90th year of classes. The college is celebrating its birthday by introducing several new courses to its curriculum.

"More than 30,000 students will be taught this year's classes," said Dr. Jervis. "Spencerian college has a long tradition of excellence in education, and we are proud to continue that tradition by offering new courses that will prepare our students for the challenges of the future." The new courses include business education, accounting, and economics.

Couple Sets Up Baby Feeding Business to Relieve Mothers

Fifty years ago 10 per cent of all babies were breast-fed. Nowadays, the figure is down to 2 per cent in hospital births. This is in spite of the fact that professional baby-feeding corporations are now a multi-million dollar industry.

Linda and her husband, Mrs. John McElroy, of Washington, were shocked when they heard their baby was born nine months ago. They wept when they thought of the baby bottle and the feeding table. Mrs. McElroy, who was a nurse, had never heard of the joys of feeding a baby in a bottle. She decided that, since she had no other choice, she would have to feed their baby herself. They also became interested in the feeding of babies and they decided to start a business that would help other mothers.

The couple opened a business called Baby Foods, located in their home. They offer a variety of baby foods, including purees, soups and puddings. They also provide a babysitting service, so parents can have a break while their babies are fed.

The business has been very successful and the couple have plans to expand. They hope to open a second branch in the near future.

Black Magic Still Survives, Police Learn

Does belief in witchcraft, sorcery and black magic still exist in today’s society?

The Fort Worth Police have arrested an old woman who they believe to be a witch. They say she has been using her powers to cause harm to her enemies.

The woman, who is 80 years old, was seen casting spells on her neighbors. She was caught by the police when they found her with a book of spells and a magic wand.

The Arabs were the first to bring witchcraft to America. The old woman is a descendant of those early Arab witches. She has been using her powers for over 50 years.
