Petitions For Ely's Removal Piling Up

Ownership of Slots Is Under Scrutiny; Mayor Named As "Sole Agent" In Press Probe

Petitions containing the signatures of scores of Euclid residents have been turned over to Mayor Charles E. Ely by Mrs. J. E. O'Malley, whose house was seized by the police on Thursday night, while holding office as mayor. Ely had responded that he would not remove himself from office, and that he would operate the machine within the next few days. Ely's "evasive declarations" and "reckless statements" were used to support the charge that the mayor was using the machine illegally. Thebes police, in a search of the machine, found it to be "an unknown and dangerous" device.

Verifiable charges are made in the complaints that the mayor has been "using his official position to control the machine," and that he has been "holding a position of trust and confidence" in the city.

The mayor denied the charges and said that he would continue to operate the machine. He also denied that he had any knowledge of the complaints.

TRIM TAILORED SUIT PREFERRED BY WOMEN

There is an unprecedented demand for two and three-piece suits in this city. Women prefer the three-piece suits in all suit, as well as to the two-piece suit. While the former is a little more expensive, it is more flexible and easy to wear.

Lusive Houchik, noted retail adviser, advised the new 입 merases to select tailored suits and to use their imagination. The best suits are those that fit well and are made of good material.

For the formal afternoon church function, women advised a suit of the finest quality. The dresses are usually light in color and should be made of good material.

Some suits are used for special occasions and are preferred for formal occasions.

THE LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA

A serial in six installments as fictionalized by HARRY LEE

Chapter 66

THE QUALITY OF MERCY

Till now it has been a question as to whether Emile Zola would live or die.

Some one might have thought, in the beginning of his career, that he would go down in history as a genius, and that his work would be read with admiration and respect throughout the ages. But now that he is on the verge of death, it seems as though all his hopes for fame and glory have vanished.

Zola was born in a small village in France, where he spent his childhood. He showed a remarkable talent for writing at an early age, and at the age of 18 he published his first novel. His work gained immediate popularity, and he soon became a prominent figure in the literary world.

However, Zola's life was not without its difficulties. He suffered from depression and anxiety, and he was often criticized by his peers for his radical political views. In 1898, he was arrested and imprisoned for his involvement in the Dreyfus Affair, a controversy that divided France.

Despite these challenges, Zola continued to write, and his work gained international recognition. He became one of the most influential figures in French literature, and his works have been translated into many languages.

Unfortunately, Zola's health declined in his later years, and he suffered from a variety of ailments, including typhoid fever and cancer. He died in 1902, at the age of 63.

Today, Zola is remembered as one of France's greatest writers, and his works continue to be studied and enjoyed by readers around the world. His legacy lives on, and his contributions to French literature will never be forgotten.
Plaids and Contrast Are Stressed by Paris

Both Youthful For Sports and College Suits

Paris stresses the importance of plaids in clothing for the young and energetic. They are also extended to include various sports suits.

The well-known house of Robe Wagner has designed a white suit of wool, with a blue and red check, with an elaborate white collar.

The largest group of innovations is the use of various colors. The use of yellow, green, and white is emphasized, with a blue and white check on the jacket.

The girl of the right has made a check suit of white, black, and blue. This suit is highly fashionable and suitable for any social occasion.

And speaking of plaids, a cape of the same color as the suit, but made of a coarser material, is also a feature of the suit.

Group to Spread Cheer to Inmates On Sweetest Day

For the sweetest occasion, the Sweetest Day, the group is planning to visit the inmates of the hospital. The group will be dressed in white suits, with red and blue checks.

The Spirit of Discovery

ON OCT. 12 America celebrates Columbus Day, in memory of the great discoverer who first revealed the existence of America. We may think that the age of discovery is past, that the sun is setting on a chapter which practically all have explored, but there is nothing of importance left to discover.

The spirit of discovery, however, is something that should never be allowed to die. It is as much a part of daily life, and in the fields of government and social welfare.

The majority of people in general prefer to plan
their lives along as best they can, doing the same things they did yesterday, and will do tomorrow.

But the human race makes no progress when it simply follows this old rut. It goes around and around in a circle.
What we need is the spirit of discovery, that shall constantly be looking for new things.

It should take hold of the problems of politics and poverty, and try to solve them, for the evils that plague the nation can be eliminated. It should be felt in business, trying to get to the bottom of other mechanical methods,
and by means which the workers can be given more opportunities.

The individual needs the spirit of discovery every day. I see in the newspapers the story of a man who lived in the same city all his life. He refused to buy a newspaper that he takes in every morning in his occupation, and is ready to make no change. The result is that a man with that spirit of discovery is always valuable.

Mobilizing Against Accidents

TEXAS SCHOOLS and women will mobilize for war
on accidents and will initiate an accident network between schools and hospitals which will be held from Oct. 11 to 13 in Kansas City.

There were 111,814 Americans killed and injured in motor-vehicle accidents in 1963. This is a loss of 28,000 people, and more than 800,000 doctors will discuss accident prevention in the home, in schools, and on the highways. The meeting will attract accident prevention leaders from the major hospitals of the United States and a number of foreign countries.

An important part of the meeting will be to work divided in relatively useless without authoritative public cooperation and force. The meeting will be able to do a cause of accidents to be ignored or a cause of injury of which no attention is paid to them.

The meeting will encourage individuals to take the simple steps that suffice to prevent the bad accidents. They will do this in their home, in their schools, or in their highways or elsewhere. Passing the last decade, this meeting will be the largest and most important yet held. Experts and experts will discuss the changing role of the accident prevention leader. They will talk about this
