THE LIFE OF EMILE ZOLA

Aerial in six installments as fictionalized By HARRY LEE

Chapter IV

MARCH 1838

The son of a poor Swiss, Jean-Antoine Zola, who had been appointed by the representative of the Revolution a local agent to aid the new government, and the schoolmaster's daughter, Marie-Charlotte Zola, married each other. They had two children, the older of whom, born on March 25, 1838, was named Emile. The parents, both influenced by the spirit of the time, provided him with a liberal education. A precocious boy, Emile Zola showed a marked gift for literature. He had a passion for reading, and his mother, despite the poverty of their dwelling, did not fail to buy him books. His first game was with books. When the school was over, he used to sit in the window, book in hand, and dream of the far-off countries described by the authors he loved. His imagination was piqued by the idea of working. Without leaving his native place, he would often imagine the conditions that would allow him to follow the career of a writer. He dreamed of a life of work and study, of a career of letters, of a life of action, of a life of adventure. He was resolved to live as a writer, to make his fortune with his pen, to conquer fame and fortune, to become rich and famous.

Under the impression of the great social changes that were going on around him, the boy's imagination was fired by the spirit of the times. He was imbued with the spirit of the Revolution, and his mind was filled with the ideal of a future society where everyone would be free and equal. He was determined to work for the cause of the working class, to fight for the rights of the common people, to help those who were oppressed and exploited by the wealthy.

Emile Zola had a strong sense of justice and a great respect for the law. He was determined to follow the career of a lawyer, to help those who were wronged and oppressed. He was resolved to work for the cause of justice, to defend the rights of the weak and the oppressed.

TIME FOR PAYMENT OF PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES

Extended to October 20th, 1937

COUNTY TREASURER'S NOTICE

By virtue of authority imposed by an act under section 4223 of the General Code of Ohio, notice is hereby given that because of the unavoidable delay by the County Auditor in the delivery of the assessment roll for the year, the time for payment of such taxes has been extended by the County Commissioners under law under section 2537 of the General Code. From September 20th, 1937, to October 20th, 1937, which latter date will be the last day for payment thereof without penalty.

It is our hope that personal property taxes will be paid before the expiration of the extended date, October 20th, 1937. Your County Treasurer is unwilling to use his method of advising personal property taxpayers of the change in time for the payment thereof, from September 20th, 1937, to October 20th, 1937. If such taxes are not paid within this period, the taxpayer will be penalized.

Personal property taxpayers should avail themselves of this extension of time which is impossible to send each taxpayer a personal notice.

JOHN J. BOYLE,
County Treasurer.

PROFITS AND SOCIAL SERVICE

FAN attractive young lady came to your home not so long ago to ask for your support of the quality of our electric lighting equipment. You probably thought this was just another time on the part of the utility company to get you to buy more powerful lamps and to consume more current. Perhaps it was. But if you followed her suggestions and indulged better equipped for the job than you have been glad of it ever since. For the home you then enjoyed was safer, more comfortable, and better than comfortable, while the extra pennies it cost you have been well worth it.

If that is the result, why bother to explore the motives of the utility company in imposing more efficient lighting facilities? Rather, we should all be grateful to this business organization which, instead of the "profit motive" which you may have induced us to take better care of that of which can never be replaced once it is lost.

The point we are getting at is that a great social good has been accomplished by business firms in seeking to create a greater demand for their products. Now if the people who thought out and carried through this better light campaign had been working for the Government or some other public agency, would you have shared their hands partly because their fellow citizens were trying to emulate the cure by spreading it among all the people? Would it have amounted to anything so these same people more or less current was used, if there had been no stockholders to pay and any defect could have been fully repaired by the taxpayer in the end? There is more than one way, it seems, to bring about the "socially useful life." And the best we have yet seen for some of the world's history in private business striving to create public doing for the good things which business may provide.
