Family Clans Will Gather For Thanksgiving Holiday

By ELEANOR POE MCLEAN

THANKSGIVING is always a busy time of year, and the holidays always equal plenty of family reunions. The Edwards, Williams, and hundreds of other families, who have their daughter, son-in-law and very young grandson with them for a visit, never have more fun at a picnic, where they are getting a large dinner party. They are the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Edwards, former-

Looking Ahead At Washington
By David R. Scott

A growing demand for national legislation which can be expected to accomplish its objectives is making itself felt on Capitol Hill. Congress will do its best to avoid the appearance of censure at the opening of the new session next month, but the pressure of public opinion will be so great that legislation will be forced into action. The administration, with its great prestige and record of success, will not be able to avoid being pressed into action. The Supreme Court will probably rule that the administration is "suffering" and "hope it works" and that it is "obviously a business proposition." The Senate, however, will be more cautious.

A national housing law which can be expected to be passed in the next session is the most important legislation that can be anticipated. It is expected to be a "landmark" legislation, designed to provide for the betterment of the housing situation throughout the country. The administration has already taken steps to make this legislation a reality. The Senate and House Committees on Housing have already held hearings and are expected to report progress soon. The legislation will provide for the creation of a national housing authority, with the power to regulate and control the construction and sale of housing. The legislation will also provide for the establishment of a national housing fund, to be used to finance the construction of housing for low-income families.

Another significant piece of legislation that can be expected to be passed in the next session is the "Equal Pay Act." This legislation will be designed to ensure that men and women be paid equally for the same work. The legislation will provide for the establishment of a national equal pay commission, which will be responsible for enforcing the provisions of the act. The legislation will also provide for the establishment of a national equal pay fund, to be used to finance the enforcement of the act.

This is a difficult time for the Federal Reserve Board, which has been under attack by the public and the press for its handling of the nation's economic problems.

Clothes and Charm
By MAROLYN BEARING

THERE are a million reasons to wear a suit, but the most important may be the way you feel in it. The classic costume for men and women alike, it's a piece of clothing that can make you feel powerful and confident. Whether you're dressing for work, a special occasion, or just because, a well-fitted suit can elevate any outfit and boost your self-esteem.

In the world of fashion, men's suits are particularly revered. They're not just about the fabric or the style, but about the personality behind the wearer. Whether you're a classic dresser or prefer a more modern look, a suit can help you convey your personal style.

For women, the classic tailored suit is a wardrobe staple. It's versatile, chic, and timeless. Whether you're wearing a pinstripe suit for a formal event or a more relaxed version for a casual gathering, it's a piece of clothing that can help you feel confident and polished.

The suit is not just a piece of clothing, but a symbol of status and respect. It's something that you should invest in, and something that you should wear with pride.

In this section, we'll explore the world of suits, from the classic men's suit to the modern women's suit. We'll look at the different styles, the different fabrics, and the different ways that you can wear a suit to make it your own.

So whether you're a man or a woman, whether you're dressing for work or dressing for play, make sure that you're wearing a suit that makes you feel confident and strong. After all, there are a million reasons to wear a suit, but the most important may be the way you feel in it.
Perfect Together

'It's Love I'm After'

A serial in six installments as fictioned by HARRY LEE

The story so far: Basil and Joyce, two good friends who are in love, are trying to decide whether to get married. Meanwhile, Basil's older brother, George, is trying to win the affections of Joyce's sister, Marie. George's schemes are complicated by the presence of the young and beautiful Susan, who is also interested in Basil.

Chapter III

"Let's go!" said Joyce, as they left the cafe. "I'm hungry, and I think we'd better stop for a meal before we get too tired."

"Okay," said Basil, as he started the car. "I'll find a place that looks nice and we'll stop there."

They drove for a while, and finally came to a small, quaint restaurant. They were welcomed by the owner, who showed them to a table by the window. "Now, what will you have to eat?" he asked.

"I'll have a beefsteak," said Basil, "and Joyce will have a chicken." They placed their orders, and sat back to enjoy the view. The restaurant was quiet, and they felt relaxed. They talked about their plans for the future, and read the menus. After a while, their food arrived. They both ate heartily, and then decided to order dessert. They chose chocolate cake and ice cream, and ate it with relish.

Chapter IV

The next day, they decided to take a drive in the country. They drove for a while, and then stopped to rest. Basil got out of the car and went to the nearby hills. He sat on a rock, and looked out at the beauty of the landscape. He thought about Joyce, and how much he loved her. He wondered if she loved him as much as he did.

"Are you coming up?" called Joyce.

Basil looked up, and saw Joyce standing by the car. "Yes," he said, "I'm coming up."

They drove for a while longer, and then came back to the city. They went to see a movie, and then returned to their apartments. They spent the evening talking, and decided to spend the rest of the week together. They were very happy, and looked forward to the future. They knew that they had found something special, and were determined to make it work.

Save Your Property — Pay Your Delinquent Taxes

Do Not Delay

December 10th, 1937 Will Be The Last Day
For the Payment of Delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property (Tangible and Intangible) Taxes Under the Thomas-Zadl-Byrne Law (formerly the Whittemore Law).

A BILL

 Providing for the collection of delinquent real estate and personal property (tangible and intangible) taxes and assessments for years prior to 1936 by ten installments and for a dissolution of such tax delinquencies.

1. Any person, firm or corporation charged with or legally authorized or required by law to pay real property taxes and assessments which have become delinquent at or prior to the August or September settlement in the year 1936, or any person, firm or corporation, the lien upon which real property may at any time prior to the tenth day of December in the year 1937 elect to pay the principal sum of such delinquent taxes and assessments as provided in this act. Provided, however, that no such person shall be entitled to make such election unless all taxes, assessments and penalties for the year 1936 then due and payable have been paid in accordance with the provisions of section 2655 of the General Code.

2. If, within the time mentioned in section one of this act, such person tenders to the county treasurer a sum equal to one hundred per cent. of the principal sum of such taxes and assessments, so delinquent, less penalties, interest and other charges, including interest charges under a prior undertaking entered into pursuant to this act, the county treasurer shall accept and receive such amount in full payment of all such taxes, assessments, penalties, interest and other charges.

3. So long as such undertaking shall continue to be performed, the lands against which said delinquent taxes or assessments, penalties, interest and other charges are, shall not be entered upon the foreclosure list, and shall not be published as provided in section 5704 of the General Code, as part of the list of delinquent property.

4. Any person who has entered into an undertaking to pay such delinquent real property taxes and assessments in installments pursuant to this act may, at any installment period, pay the entire unpaid balance of the principal sum of such delinquent taxes and assessments, in which event no interest shall be charged or collected on the amount so paid.

5. Upon the satisfaction of all taxes and assessments for the years prior to the year 1936 in accordance with the provisions of this act, all penalties and interest on taxes and penalties for said years prior to the year 1936 shall be abated and cancelled; and in the event any such taxes and assessments have been paid the penalties and interest thereon have not been paid, then such penalties and interest shall be so abated and cancelled.

Personal and Classified Property Taxes

1. Any person, firm or corporation against whom or on which, other than those upon real estate specifically as such have been charged on the delinquent tax list and duplicates in the year 1936 or prior thereto, pursuant to section 5691 of the General Code, MAY AT ANY TIME PRIOR TO THE TENTH DAY OF DECEMBER IN THE YEAR 1937 elect to pay the principal sum of such delinquent personal and classified taxes, as provided in this act.

2. A person electing to pay delinquent taxes by installments, as provided in section 10 of this act, shall thereby undertake that the personal and classified property taxes charged against such person and currently payable during the period covered thereby will be paid when due and that the remaining installments of such delinquent taxes shall be paid in nine annual installments at and during the period of collection of the full amount, less the amount of the advance payment, if any, credited thereon of taxes charged on the general personal property tax duplicate or the classified property tax duplicate, with interest as hereinbefore prescribed, but without penalty or other charge.

2. A person who has entered into an undertaking to pay such delinquent personal and classified property taxes in installments pursuant to this act may, at any installment period, pay the entire unpaid balance of the principal sum of such delinquent taxes, in which event no interest shall be charged or collected on the amount so paid. Upon the satisfaction of all personal property, other than those specifically as such have been charged on the delinquent tax list and duplicates in the year 1936 in accordance with the provisions of this act, all penalties and interest for said years prior to the year 1937 shall be abated and cancelled; and in the event any such taxes have herefore been paid but the penalties thereon have not been paid, then such penalties shall be so abated and cancelled.

December 10th, 1937 Will Be The Last Day You Can Qualify Under This Act. — S.B.87

John J. Boyle, County Treasurer
